

Date: Wed, 13 Nov 2002 23:35:11 -0500 (EST)
From: Thomas Wilson <twilson@ms.cc.sunysb.edu>
Reply-To: Thomas Wilson <thomas.wilson@sunysb.edu>
To: Mike Prince <office@unols.org>, Mike Prince <mike@unols.org>
Subject: Re: UNOLS RVTEC site update

On Wed, 13 Nov 2002, Thomas Wilson wrote:

> Just checking in - I have been sick for the past few days - probably > Hawaii deficit disorder :-)) - so I haven't put together a report for you > to read Thursday at RVTEC. I will try and get something to you in the > next six hours, so please check your email again before tomorrow.

Hey Mike, my flu is acting up and the prose isn't flowing tonight, so if you could just make a short and simple presentation tomorrow:

1) The RVTEC site is being revamped so that sections requiring frequent update will be accessible for the UNOLS office staff.

2) Anyone interested in providing links and/or content for the RVTEC site has always been welcome to do so. If folks want I can set them up with a directory on the RVTEC SUNY server that they can access and change as they want.

Just to make attendees there feel even more tropical, I was in the field on Monday doing a site survey under a pigeon infested drawbridge and Tuesday pulling cables down a dock in 45 degree temperatures with wind and rain (for Steve Hartz, this last is a pleasant day in June).

Hope everyone is having a productive and pleasant meeting. I look forward to seeing everybody next year.

Best regards,
Tom Wilson