

Shipboard Noise

Hi,

I was wondering who I should contact with regards to the designs of the new ships. The current fleet are very noisy and several colleagues of mine and I are starting to lose their hearing. We have all spent several years of our lives at sea, so this is no small issue. It is of the utmost importance that this be addressed prior to building any new ships. Noise-wise, the Kila Moana is a disaster, while the global class ships have 2 or 3 rooms that it is inhumane to put people in. This should not be repeated.
