

December 2015 - Workboat Show

 University-National Oceanographic Laboratory
System (UNOLS)

UNOLS provides a primary forum through which the world's research and education community, research facility operators, and the supporting federal agencies work cooperatively to improve access, scheduling, operations, and availability of current and future academic oceanographic facilities.

We are an organization of over 60 academic research institutions and national laboratories who work together to ensure that U.S. ocean science and education programs are timely and rigorous, thanks to broad access to the best possible area of expertise, capability, efficiency, cost-and well-supported research results, aircraft, instrumentation, and other major shared-use facilities.

Ocean Sciences Meeting February 2016

